Anne E. Kershaw, Esq.
A.Kershaw, PC // Attorneys & Consultants

Anne Kershaw is the founder of A. Kershaw, P.C. // Attorneys & Consultants (www.AKershaw.com), a nationally recognized litigation management consulting firm providing independent analysis and innovative recommendations for the management of all aspects of litigation, including the management of data, records and documents for discovery in litigation and investigations. Anne Kershaw is an expert on reducing costs associated with accumulated legacy data and electronic discovery. A list of the firm's services and representative clients is included (with client permission) on www.AKershaw.com. Anne Kershaw has provided advice and solutions for managing discovery in some of the nation's largest litigations, including the tobacco litigation, securities fraud litigations, wage and hours class actions, anti-trust investigations/litigations and investment fraud claims. Ms. Kershaw is also co-founder of the E-Discovery Institute (www.eDiscoveryInstitute.org), a not-for-profit corporation that conducts studies regarding electronic discovery processes and technologies and is dedicated to resolving discovery challenges facing the legal community.

Ms. Kershaw has been involved with high tech litigation management since 1993, taking management roles on national coordinating and trial counsel teams defending volume, multi-state, product liability claims. Ms. Kershaw has an AV+ rating in Martindale Hubbell and consults in complex and individual cases on electronic data discovery strategy and issues and has served as an expert for FRCP 30(b)(6) technology and corporate policy depositions. Ms. Kershaw also maintains ongoing involvement in federal and state civil rules reform to address electronic discovery issues and litigation fairness issues, providing litigation survey data and testimony before the Federal Civil Rules Advisory Committee. In addition, Ms. Kershaw is a Faculty Member of Columbia University's Executive Master of Science in Information and Knowledge Strategy, http://ce.columbia.edu/Information-and-Knowledge-Strategy, she taught at the Georgetown University E-Discovery Academy and is currently an Advisory Board Member of the Georgetown University Law Center's Advanced E-Discovery Institute. She is a frequent lecturer and in March 2007, she joined Supreme Court Justice Stephen Breyer and Harvard Law Professor Arthur Miller at Georgetown's Thought Leadership Summit. In 2010 and 2011 she conducted workshops on electronic discovery at the Federal Judicial Center's conferences for U.S. Magistrate Judges. She is also the author of numerous published articles, all posted on www.AKershaw.com, and is a member of the Sedona Conference® Working Group on Best Practices for Electronic Document Retention and Production (www.thesedonaconference.org), the International Legal Technology Association (www.iltanet.org), the Association of Records Management (www.arma.org), and the National Association of Women Lawyers (www.nawl.org).
